

Global CITES Policy

Re: Use of Products derived from CITES listed Species

The worldwide initiative CITES (the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora) is an international agreement between governments. Its aim is to ensure that international trade in specimens of wild animals and plants does not threaten their survival.

In light of Symrise being a responsible company promoting sustainable sourcing of their ingredients, the following shall apply:

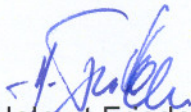

Any product derived from species listed under Appendix I can only be used if a certificate from the supplier has been obtained with regard to their sustainable sourcing, e.g. artificial propagation.

NOTE: This policy does not affect other regulatory requirements including local national regulations such as Commission Regulation No 318/2008.

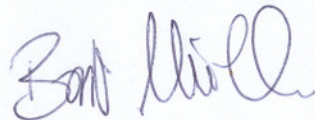

Neither does it affect other Symrise restrictions set for these products, e.g. with regard to the safe use of their ingredients.

The latest appendices of CITES can be found at <http://www.cites.org/eng/app/index.shtml>

Further general information on CITES can be found at <http://www.cites.org/>

Dr. Helmut Frieden
Corporate Vice President
Corporate Compliance

Dr. Boris Mueller
Director
Product Compliance